

Saturday, May 8
Wolf Ranch Town Center
9 a.m. to noon

Come and enjoy a family-friendly morning learning about the amazing programs offered to children and teens in the Georgetown community. This free event organized by The Georgetown Family YMCA and Wolf Ranch Town Center will be held from 9 a.m. to noon on May 8 in the Ross Dress for Less parking lot at Wolf Ranch Town Center. Families can enjoy crafts, fun music, bouncy houses, a fire truck, the Georgetown Police Department, and informational booths!

The Georgetown Project Afterschool Alliance partners hosted youth service events in April to plan wellness education activities for this event and will have informational booths about their youth programs. Confirmed participants include The Georgetown Project NEST Empowerment Center and the City of Georgetown Parks and Recreation Youth Advisory Board. The Georgetown Project is promoting youth connection to the community by inviting local high school students to volunteer as part of Global Youth Service Day.

If you are a high school student interested in volunteering for the event, please email Melisa Aranda at melisa@georgetownproject.org

Funding from Youth Service America and the Charles Stewart Mott Foundation is helping support the youth service events.
